

2021 International Symposium on Aviation Psychology

May 18-21, 2021 | Portland, Oregon

Sponsorship Package

Oregon State University will host the 2021 International Symposium on Aviation Psychology in Portland, Oregon. ISAP aims to:

- Showcase the latest research on human performance within aviation systems
- Envision design solutions that best recognize human capabilities for creating safe and efficient aviation systems
- Bring together scientists, practitioners, policy makers, and research sponsors to bridge the gap between research and application

ISAP will draw 250 to 350 participants from around the world, including industry and government leaders, researchers and engineers of every career stage, educators and frontline practitioners such as pilots and air traffic controllers. We offer opportunities to connect through plenary sessions, symposia, poster sessions and social events. Although the symposium is aerospace oriented, we welcome attendees from any domain that speaks to issues of human performance in complex technological systems.

The 2021 meeting is slated for May 18 to 21, 2021 at the historic Sentinel Hotel in Portland, Oregon. We invite you to partner with us to support this important conference and showcase your company to contacts and leaders in the field.

Please find attached an outline of sponsorship packages, so that you can choose the tier that works best for you. Please don't hesitate to reach out with questions; we are happy to discuss/negotiate individualized sponsorship opportunities.

Best Wishes,

Jason McCarley - Oregon State University
